

PRESS RELEASE

Premiere for the innovator from Stuttgart

10.09.2019

The Silberform Group presents itself for the first time at the IAA

Stuttgart / Frankfurt. The Silberform Group from Renningen near Stuttgart presents its current range of services at the International Motor Show (IAA) in Frankfurt. From September 12 to 22, Hall 8, Stand C12, the latest solutions for the automotive, air and space industries will be presented. Silberform is represented at the leading trade fair of the automotive industry for the first time in its nearly ten-year history. The highlight of the stand is the "MFT active sound system" – thanks to state-of-the-art technology, it offers a unique 3D sound experience in the vehicle. In addition, Silberform demonstrates its competence as a full-service provider in the area of "Design – Exhibits – Fair appearance" – an achievement with which the company wants to become a sought-after point of contact for the international marketing of products.

The companies of the Silberform Group offer a wide range of services along the automotive value chain. They see themselves as design and development service provider of the industry, which always operates discretely in the background. Silberform develops and manufactures prototypes, showcars and special vehicles as well as innovative components for series production. In addition to the development of software ("SF42" – a web platform for the continuous control of all relevant information in business and corporate processes) and convenient operating concepts at the interface between man and machine (HMI), electromobility and charging technology also play an important role.

At the IAA, the Group's competence will become tangible for visitors: Amongst other things, the prototype of a new Business Class seat produced for RECARO Aircraft Seating will be presented. In regard to alternative mobility solutions, the Silberform partner metrologx will show its cloud-based tracking solution on an industrial e-scooter.

"Silberform combines traditional craftsmanship with state-of-the-art digital development and production methods," says Jürgen Müller, Founder & CEO of the Silberform Group. "Our aim is to support our customers in their highly complex projects with our know-how, our innovative strength and our flexibility."

Silberform was founded in 2010 as a public company and has since evolved into a specialized group of nine companies with various focal points. The group is located in Renningen. There, the work on complex projects takes place under one roof, on more than 10,000 square meters with workshops, design and presentation areas and with the strictest secrecy measures. In addition, Silberform has locations in Wolfsburg as well as in the Polish city of Cracow and in Cary (USA). In 2018, the company generated 22 million euros in sales. Around 200 people work for Silberform at the moment.
